Get informed early

We strongly suggest that you research the exchange programs as early as possible (about 1,5 years prior to the planned stay abroad) to avoid any troubles in meeting the deadline. It is your responsibility to check the partner university's websites to make sure that you will be able to realistically pursue your academic goals there. You can find reports from former exchange students and other information materials on the International Office's website. Additional short-notice calls for applications for study exchange or scholarship programs, as well as information sessions, group advising and similar events will also be published on the IO's website.

Who can apply?

University of Freiburg students from all disciplines – with the exception of medicine/dentistry - can apply. Please be aware of restrictions that might occur in all fields of study. Students with nationalities other than German cannot be sent to home country partner universities. Registration at the partner university is usually possible for undergraduate programs, while access to (post-)graduate classes might be enabled individually. The academic year in Australia/New Zealand starts in February/March.

The application process

Students wishing to participate in the Freiburg Global Exchange programs must be enrolled in a degree-seeking study program at the University of Freiburg at the time of the application and for the entirety of the stay abroad. On the required preference list (see below), you will indicate which universities you would like to attend, accompanied by a brief explanatory statement. Your preferences will be considered in the selection process, however, an appropriate placement cannot be guaranteed.

The application must be submitted to the International Office upon the deadline and must include all of the below listed documents attached as single MS Word/PDF files. All documents must be submitted in English unless indicated otherwise. Official application forms can be downloaded here: www.international.uni-freiburg.de/en/out/study/exchange/global-exchange/forms

- University of Freiburg Global Exchange application form
- certificate of matriculation ("Studienbescheinigung")
- list of preferences
- curriculum vitae
- letter of motivation (three pages maximum; personal and academic reasons for the stay abroad including ideas for representing the University of Freiburg at the partner university)
- one letter of recommendation from a university professor/teacher (to be enclosed with the application OR sent by the teacher via email to the coordinator's address below directly)
- current transcript of records
- Master students: copy of Bachelor's degree
- language proficiency: TOEFL or IELTS scores
- copy of university entrance qualification ("Abiturzeugnis", e.g. in German)
- copy of the passport (e.g. in German)

Complete applications have to be submitted within the deadline by email to the coordinator's address below. A supplementary online application might occur, while in this case information will be sent directly to all applicants in due time. After the selection process no application documents will be sent back to applicants.
